FAYETTE JUDICIAL INQUIRY STARTS AT
THE COUNTY SEAT*Legislators Take Up Investigation of the Umbel
Charges.*INTEREST IN PROBE IS KEEN

Courtroom is Too Small to Hold the Jury of Spectators Who Clamor for Admittance; Legislators Take Up
Hearings in Gallatin Hotel.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 19.—The Legislative inquiry into the impeachment
charges preferred against Judge Um-bel, in which the act of Judge Van Swaenendael is also placed under scrutiny, began its sessions
here this afternoon. The committee, consisting of Samuel A. Whitaker of Chester, chairman; Cleon N. Hertford of Lancaster, secretary; John M. Ryan of Erie; E. P. Conitt of Luerne and Joseph H. Deffen of Warren, arrived at 11:23 and went at once to the Gallatin Hotel, where they have reserved quarters. They were accompanied from Harrisburg by Representatives Keeney and Cochran of Fayette and E. J. Hart, representative of the Legislative correspondents' association.

The committee is awaiting a decision
from Attorney General Bell as to whether it may hold hearings and take testimony after the Legislature is adjourned. This is one of the important points on which the course of the committee hinges. If the attorney general decides that the committee dies with the Legislature, it is probable the sessions will not extend over the present
week, although no adjournment date
has been agreed upon in Harrisburg.

The large courtroom proved too
small to hold the crowds which entered early for seats of vantage when the hearing opened. Some of the spectators began to leave at noon in hope that they might get suitable seats. When the doors opened there was a rush. It was impossible to admit all and many left disappointed.

Space was reserved for the witnesses, while many of the spectators were permitted to remain within the railings.

Judge Umbel's defense will be made public this afternoon. It is said this statement will add to the startling disclosures already intimated by the charges which have been filed by Attorney E. C. Hiebel with representative Judge Umel. Attorney John Mar-
ron of Pittsburgh has been retained by H.
S. Dumbauld.

TAFT MAY BE CALLED

Lobby Fobers May Summon Former President.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Every public man whose name was bandied
about by the sugar lobbyists in their efforts to get "the right kind of man"
on Senate and House committees, may be called before the Senate lobby probing committee. This was indicated
this morning by statements made by Senator Cummins.

These named in the correspondence secured from the headquarters of the sugar lobbyists in Washington include former President William Howard Taft, William L. Gurnea, former secretary of President Roosevelt, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, and many others.

When the hearings were resumed
this morning, Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press,
at his own request, took the witness stand to tell of sources from which the news association secured stories relating to the sugar industry.

Senator Cummins indicated this morning that he would like to call to the stand managers of a big newspaper enterprise which has paid $2,500 a month by the sugar lobby to print stories favorable to the sugar industry.

Mr. Stone testified that he had not negotiated with the sugar men to publish stories favoring their industry.

The present letter written by C.
C. Hamlin, chairman of the United States Beet Sugar Industry, in which the writer complained of a published interview given the press association
by John A. Brown, the secretary of the United States Beet Sugar Industry, contained much misinformation, Mr.
Stone stated that the interview was
of interest because it touched on reasons for the high cost of living,
which was the principal reason he handled it.

The witness presented other correspondence between himself and Mr.
Hamlin, which indicated that the two were not in accord on the sugar industry articles sent out by the Associated Press.

THREAT TO RUIN RACE

Unidentified Man Attempts to Slay
Belmont Horse in England.

LONDON, June 19.—An unidentified male suffragette sympathizer this afternoon followed the example of Miss Emily Davidson, who met death
as a result of injuries received in attempting to ruin the English Derby,
by springing at the head of August Belmont's horse, Tropic, and animal and rider fell to the ground. The man was injured; perhaps fatally.

Carnegie Goes to France.

BEITLIN, June 19.—Andrew Carnegie left this morning for France,
where he will attend a dinner on Sunday. Mr. Carnegie was accompanied by his wife and 16-year-old daughter Margaret. They will visit the Alps
before going to France.

GOVERNOR TENER WILL VETO COLLEGE APPROPRIATION ACT

At Request of Trustees Executive Will Not Sign Washington and Jefferson Bill.

United Press Telegram.

HARRISBURG, June 19.—The bill
appropriating $80,000 for Washington and Jefferson College against which trustees of the institution protested to the Legislature will not become a law.
Governor Tener announced that without the institution have written him
against the enactment of the measure in its present form and that he will not sign it.

The House this morning postponed
action on the Snyder bill. The measure is planned to pave the way for rejection of the Clark commission government bill by third class cities not favoring it.

The bill requiring that all trolley
cars be equipped with fenders, passed readily in the House.

The Senate appropriations committee reported the soldiers' pension bill carrying $1,600,000 and pensions for emergency men of $800,000.

The appropriations committee reported several increases. Among them was one increasing the appropriations
for state normal schools from $200,000
to $400,000.

The Senate and House conference committee on the state wide primary bill adjourned at noon without reaching an agreement on any of its provisions. Another meeting will be held this afternoon.

WALTER SUES RAILROAD

Somerset Man Wants $15,000 for Injuries in Glen Loch Wreck.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, June 19.—Albert J.
Walter, formerly a resident of Connecticut and well known in the Young region, today filed suit against the Pennsylvania railroad to recover $15,- 000 damages for injuries suffered in the Glen Loch wreck of November 27, 1912.

Walter was a passenger on the train
from New York to Johnstown. His right arm was broken and it is contended that he is permanently disabled. He contends, in his statement, that the wreck was caused by a defective bridge which had been erected in 1891 and since that time had never been strengthened, although the weight of locomotives and cars as well as their speed, have greatly increased since that time.

GET TRAIN RIDERS

Cops Get Seven From Freight Trains
in Yards.

Officer M. F. Withers of the Baltimore & Ohio police force today
announced that he had last night apprehended seven freight train riders.
In all the pair made seven arrests. Two of the prisoners, when arraigned before the borough this morning, gave the names of Harry Popkinberger, aged 18, and Charles Rhodes, 19 years old.
Their homes are in Williamsport, Md.,
and they came to Connellville on a freight train in search of work.

The other train riders were John
Smith, Scranton; George Dunlap,
Dunsmuir; Robert McKoy, E. A.
Johnson, Bradnock, and George Zimmerman, Williamsport. All of them were discharged with a warning to leave town in a hurry.

FIRST "FOURTH" ACCIDENT

Youngster Nearly Loses Hand Tying
With a Cannon.

While firing a small cannon last evening at his home on Edna street,
Harry Gross, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gross, had a narrow escape from losing his left hand.
It was badly lacerated and one finger was almost blown off. The boy was taken to the Cottage State Hospital for treatment of the injury. His finger will not have to be amputated. He was discharged this morning.

Grace Stehle, 9 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stehle of Connecticut, fell off the perch at the Stehle home last night and suffered a fracture of the left arm. She was admitted to the hospital.

C. E. Radcliff, 31 years old, of Highland avenue, was operated on for appendicitis this morning.

NOT MUCH SICKNESS.

Health Officer B. J. Hoyer Gets Breathing Spell.

The borough is remarkably free
from contagious diseases. Looking through his records this morning,
Health Officer Barthold Rottler discovered that there is only one case
in town, and that is diphtheria, of which the patient, a member of the Steele family of Fayette street, is recovering.

During the present summer months
there have been very few cases reported to the health authorities, and few of them have resulted fatally.
Measles and chicken pox, however,
abundantly, have been the most prevalent.

Look Over Streets.

Burgess J. L. Evans last night accompanied Chairman W. F. Clark and members of the street committee on an inspection of several streets requiring repairs. Streets visited include several on the West and South Sides. Some of these thoroughfares are in bad shape and Mr. Clark will make recommendations to council tonight that they be repaired.

80 Girls Burn to Death.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 19.—
Eighty girls employed in the sugar
beet industry near here were burned
to death this morning when the houses
in which they were sleeping were fired
by the villagers. The people were ordered because the sugar company imported cheap labor.

Death Engine in Remarkable Tests Over Scene of Wreck.

STAMFORD (CONN.) DEATH ENGINE REPEATING WRECK RUN.
NARROW SHOWS DAMAGED PORTION.

CORNER, PHILAN—GEN. SUPT. WOODWARD SHAPED DISCUSSING TESTS.

PHOTOS BY J. B. STARK AND PAUL STARK.

Unusual in many ways were the airbrake tests of engine 1328, which crashed into the rear Pullman of the Boston to New York express on the New York, New Haven & Hartford
railroad at Stamford, Conn., and killed six and injured nearly a score. The locomotive, drawing the same cars as on the day of the crash, ran over the same section of tracks. For six straight tests the engine worked all right, with varying results, but on the seventh test the airbrakes failed to work properly and the train went beyond the point where the first section
had stood at the time of the accident,
proving the contention of Engineer
Charles J. Daugherty. The top picture shows that the engine still bore traces of the smashup, as indicated by the arrow. In the lower view, Coroner Phelan is inspecting the engine, which make further trials. General Superintending C. N. Woodward consenting.

ELECTRIC CONCERN
SEEKS SITE FOR A BIG POWER PLANT

Mr. Kaehler Looks Over
Available Locations
in the City.

Council Will Likely Take Definite Action at Its Meeting This Evening.
New Concern Declares that an Expensive Power House is Planned.

A site for the erection of a big power plant is being sought today by J. George Kaehler, the Rochester man endeavoring to secure franchises from council for an electric and steam heating company.

The work of selecting ground adequate for the purpose is a difficult task, and Mr. Kaehler is not having an easy time. Many of the real estate men with whom he has consulted
have been anxious to make the sale,
but no site has yet been chosen. In making the purchase, Mr. Kaehler dissires a plot centrally located. It must not be too distant from the center of town.

The company Mr. Kaehler and his associates propose to organize in Connecticut will not be a small affair,
they say. Besides supplying power, heat and light in town it will make an effort to invade the towns surrounding Connellville.

Mr. Kaehler stated this morning that 10 days following the passage of the ordinance, the company will be chartered, and within a few weeks
ground will be broken for the erection of a plant. That the work of erecting the power houses and installing the equipment will be hurried to completion, was the statement of the Rochester man. He says he and his associates mean business here. They intend to give the town cheaper power than has been enjoyed heretofore, and will do it as soon as money and men can.

Connellville business men interested in the undertaking are hoping for the early passage of the ordinance
and the passage of the ordinance, prepared by Borough Solicitor F. D. Munson, will be presented by the chairman of the joint meeting of the light and finance committees that passed upon them at a conference Tuesday night.

Will Elect Principal Tonight.

The South Connellville School Board will meet this evening to elect a high school principal and also a high school teacher. This will complete the corps of teachers.

18 LAUNDRY WORKERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

Eighteen Girls in Shirt Department
Ask for Shorter Hours, Which Are Granted.

Eighteen girls employed in the shirt
department of the Connellville Steam Laundry invaded the office of Manager
F. O. Goodwin yesterday morning and threatened to strike if their demand
for shorter hours was not granted.
The girls asserted that they have been working on an average of 12 hours
a day and asked that the work day be cut to 10 hours.

Mr. Goodwin explained that it was necessary to get the work done
and that the girls were capable of doing it in 10 hours he had no objection to their stopping work at 6 o'clock. This was agreeable to the
would-be strikers and they returned to their machines.

While the employees of the laundry
have been working long hours, they do little on Monday morning and have a half holiday on Saturday. The minimum wage is $5 and the maximum $14 a week.

"BIB" is a Witness.

William McCormick is the only member of town council subpoenaed
to testify in the Umel impeachment proceedings which started this afternoon in Uniontown. The councilman was summoned as a witness for the defense.

WIFE ASKS ALIMONY.

Connellville Woman Files Conditional
Label in Court.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 19.—A libel
divorce was filed today by Mary E.
Solomon against Charles Solomon,
the grounds being cruel and barbarous treatment. Mrs. Solomon does not ask an absolute divorce, but petitions for separation and alimony. The pair were married in New Jersey on June 25, 1912, and resided in Connellville.
James L. Evans has filed a libel in divorce from Bertha Q. Brown on the grounds of malicious desertion. They were married in German township on April 4, 1907, and lived in Uniontown.

CATCHES BURGLAR AT WORK.

But E. L. Marietta and Neighbors
Were Unable to Hold Him.

While Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Marietta, formerly of Connellville, were sitting on their front porch at Foxtown Tuesday night, a thief entered the house
through the rear door but was discovered before he had time to make a haul.

Mr. Marietta telephoned the state troopers and tried with the aid of several neighbors to keep the intruder a prisoner until the arrival of the troopers, but failed. The scream of a woman frightened the thief away.

TRAGEDY OCCURS AT NEW CASTLE

Wife of Dead Man is Prostrated and
May Not Attend Funeral; Murderer
Became Enraged Because of His Discharge, Entered Office and Fired.

United Press Telegram.

NEW CASTLE, June 19.—Walter Linderbrink, aged 25, assistant sales manager of the New Castle Portland Cement Company who was shot last night by James Vandervort, a discharged salesman, died this morning
at 6 o'clock in the hospital here.

Although his condition is still serious, physicians believe that Vander-vort, who swallowed poison after the shooting, will recover. On account of the peculiar action of the poison he swallowed, it will probably be several days before Vandervort will be pronounced out of danger.

Mrs. Linderbrink is at the hospital prostrated over the death of her husband. It is doubtful whether she will be able to attend his funeral.

Linderbrink was seated at his desk
conversing over the telephone with his wife, when Vandervort entered and started firing. He fired four times,
one of the bullets striking the wall, a second passing through an open window and the two last striking the back of the chair upon which Linderbrink was seated. After penetrating the chair, the lead pellets passed into Linderbrink's back. One of the bullets struck him in the small of the back
and penetrated the left lung.

The shots were heard distinctly by
Mrs. Linderbrink over the telephone.

Roy Hazen, general sales manager
of the company, stated today that he believes the shots were intended for
him. He was in Youngstown, Ohio,
on business yesterday, and thinks that if he had been in the office, Vander-vort would have made an effort to kill him.

Although the police have searched
the office in which the shooting occurred, they have been unable to discover the weapon with which Vandervort did the shooting. It is believed that he dropped it in escaping
from the building.

Vandervort did not make an effort
to leave town following the shooting.
He secured a quantity of poison and swallowed it in an effort to commit suicide.

CHINAMAN ARRESTED

Patrolman Barnes Catches Him
Dumping Rubbish in River.

Prisoners of all nationalities are called upon at some time or another
to stand before Burgess J. L. Evans,
but the first Chinaman to be arrested
this year was apprehended last night.
The Celestial gentleman was emptying
a sack of rubbish over the Tough bridge into the river, when he was spied by Patrolman Barnes. The fear gave one yell, as a warning to the yellow man to desist, and then started after him. When Barnes reached the bridge there was a stream
of papers and garbage floating down
the river.

After spending a short time at city hall, the Chinaman decided to post a $5 forfeit for his appearance before Burgess Evans, and was given his freedom.

Do You Need Assistance

IN THE SELECTION OF YOUR WALL PAPER?

There is a logical sequence governed largely by the existing conditions in your home which if followed will produce correct results. Each room should be treated so as to give it correct form and proportions.

Then there is the question of color and design which must suit the individualities of each room as well as harmonize with the adjoining rooms. Especially is this true of parlors, dining room and reception hall or any group of rooms when considered collectively.

I can render you valuable assistance in the selection of your Wall Papers.

Miss Maude Vogel Becomes Bride of Pittsburgh Min.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, June 19.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Peter Vogel on the South Side, last evening at 8 o'clock when her daughter, Miss Maude P. Vogel became the bride of William Grant Fullman of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. G. Buckner, pastor of the Somerset Christian Church. Prof. Jenn Moss of Metheny, W. Va., a brother-in-law of the bride, rendered a wedding march on the piano. The bridesmaids were Misses Elizabeth Miller of Greensburg and the best man was Donald G. Fullman of Pittsburgh, a brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a white gown of imported lace, while the bridesmaid wore American beauty pink charmuse. The flower bearers were Miss Ruth Moss and Charles Frederick Elliot.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Margaret Fullman of Pittsburgh, and is employed by the Allegheny County Light Company of Pittsburgh. He is also first lieutenant of Company I, 14th Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania.

MOOSE BOOSTERS ARRANGE TRIP TO CINCINNATI MEET

Local Lodge Will be Well Represented at the National Convention There Next Month.

An event to take place the latter part of next month is of much interest to the 400 members of the Connelville Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose. It will be the annual convention to be held in Cincinnati July 23 to August 1, inclusive.

Members of the order have been planning to attend the convention for more than a year, and for this purpose a boosters' club was organized. When the boosters were first brought together, they had a membership of 15, but the enrollment has gradually grown until today there are 33 names on the roll.

For 12 months each booster was required to pay a small sum into the hands of the treasurer, forming the fund to pay the expenses to the convention city. This fund has been enlarged on several occasions by various social events the boosters held for the purpose.

Representatives of the local lodge have visited the Vanderbilt, Uniontown and Scottsdale lodges to arouse interest in the special train that will leave here on the morning of July 27. It is desired that these three lodges accompany the boosters, and from present indications they will.

The train will leave Connelville over the Baltimore & Ohio at 5.37 A. M., arriving in Cincinnati at 5.50 P. M. Upon their arrival in the convention city, the Moose will reside at the Oxford Hotel, which has been engaged for the accommodation of Moose from Connelville and surrounding towns.

While only members of the boosters' club will have their expenses paid from the fund raised during the year, any member of the order is privileged to accompany them on the special train. Efforts are being made to have as many go as possible. J. D. Madison is the lodge delegate. During the trip, the Moose will be entertained by a one-man band, Walker, the McKeeseport musician, has been engaged to accompany them.

Officers of the boosters are: J. A. Cypher, president; O. P. Burns, secretary; and Ira Fleisher, treasurer. The booster roll includes the following: William E. Rice, Chairman; O. P. Burns, William Cooney, Benjamin York, S. P. Leech, Joseph Addis, John Nez, William Erlicker, J. A. Crowley, C. A. Cypher, J. M. Morgan, Ira Fleisher, C. G. Ash, John E. Davis, D. E. Murphy, F. W. Grouse, Ray Fleisher, William Smith, George Richester, Russell Vaughn, James Rowan, Henry Sible, John Roy, J. E. Slonaker, E. A. Tremberth, Joseph Bobka and Antonio De Ferrol.

Arrested: Taken to Uniontown. Garibaldi Perilli was arrested yesterday afternoon and taken to Uniontown by Constable McCann to appear before Squire Bierer on a charge of assault and battery. The plaintiff, Morris Yauger, assistant manager of Shady Grove, alleges that the Italian attacked him when he requested him to act orderly while dancing.

NOT SO INTRIGATE.

The Courier does not have an extensive law library nor has it a leading lawyer for a consultant, but it does not require a high degree of legal knowledge to interpret the ordinary legislative enactment. To do so ought not to require any technical skill, and it would not if the Legislature would provide itself with a competent legal force to edit its proposed enactments before they get into the law books. The News seems to think otherwise; and what's more it evidently thinks it is a competent editor and expounder of legal enactments, particularly of that semi-finished product known as the Clark Third-Class City Government Bill. It says:

The Courier, with characteristic inaccuracy, gravely states "but the Clark Act asserts that such officers shall take their oaths the first Monday of January, 1914."

The Supreme Court decided that the persons in office who took their oaths were issued creating Conneltsville a city would continue until the first Monday of December, 1913, and under this interpretation, the Clark bill, which is a serious question, there will be a hiatus during December in which the people of this community will be without the luxury of municipal government.

Such captions have superficial utterances only illustrate the fallacy of attempting to determine the truth by intricate legal questions by editorial comment, no matter how clear and artistic the particular writer who makes the attempt. The News does not know whether the Clark bill applies to Conneltsville. It sincerely hopes that it will be so determined. That this is a serious question is apparent from the article in The Courier. It says:

"The provision in the Clark Act which authorizes certain city officers to elect this fall to take their oaths the first Monday in December, 1913, applies only to cities now having city government. The News does not know whether the Clark bill applies to Conneltsville. It sincerely hopes that it will be so determined. That this is a serious question is apparent from the article in The Courier. It says:

porary, with due respect to its profundity, seems plain enough, too. It is provided in Article VI, section 3, that mayors and members of council shall be elected at large, that where the term of the mayor expires in December, 1913, his successor shall be chosen to serve from that time until the first Monday of January, 1914, and his successor shall be elected in 1917 and quadrennially thereafter. The News says this section relates only to mayors, but its concluding words are as follows:

"At the first municipal election held after the passage of this act, and biennially thereafter, the qualified electors of each city of the third class shall elect four members of council who shall serve for a term of two years from the first Monday of January next succeeding their election, except in the case of members first elected under this act who shall serve from the first Monday of December next following their election until the first Monday of January, 1914."

Thus it is provided that there will be no December hiatus in established city government, which is sought to be changed so its terms shall hereafter run concurrently with the calendar years. Conneltsville is not now under city government. It is just coming in. Consequently the code decrees that its borough government shall begin over and the city government shall begin with the calendar year.

Under the Clark code, we therefore conclude:

1. Conneltsville will nominate its city officers at the September primary and elect them at the November election, 1913.

2. They will take their oaths and city government will begin on the first Monday of January, 1914.

3. The present borough government will hold over until that time.

The Pittsburg school authorities, having dismissed him from office on the report of a private investigating committee after he had been acquitted of specific charges in court, Superintendent Hester will sue for three years' salary, and unless there is a very saving clause in the contract it looks as if the board would have to settle. The courts will probably decide that the Pittsburg School Board cannot take away a man's character and his position at the same time.

A Greene county woman committed suicide in two feet of water. She evidently wasn't a quitter. It is much easier to swim out of two feet of water than to swim under it.

In these times of short car supplies when people should remember that the needs of everybody, including their own, will be better served by prompt unloading and quick movement.

Little editors who get their pants dusted are very apt to call names between blubbering.

Small children should not be compelled to walk long distances to school in all kinds of weather, and the Conneltsville directors should forget their personal disappointments and remember only that they are charged with a grave public duty.

The authorities of Conneltsville very sensibly insist upon clean vacant lots as well as clean private premises.

One of the West Virginia strike probbers tried to give one of the operators a punch and got the hook. The operator wanted to buy the Senator a drink, and the Senator possibly mistook the operator for one of those insidious lobbyists.

Fairbanks has hard work holding its powder industry down.

Recent fatalities in the Conneltsville region suggest the importance of holding fast to something when riding on rail or trolley cars.

The B. & O. is sadly in need of better passenger coaches and more of them, but perhaps the railroad is more in need of that five cent advance in freight rates first. Safety First is not the only first consideration to railroad operation.

Many plans have been suggested to utilize the waste product of cooking, especially the heat and the gases, but none have yet appeared seriously to the practical mind of the Conneltsville city operators. Perhaps the title patent is to be the grand exception. It does not look impossible.

ORIGINALITY.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swish."

Originality consists of doing things differently.

Sometimes originality is a good thing. The man who got tired of wearing pink silk trousers and broadcloth coats and who invented the plain but durable pants of modern times, relieved man of a crushing burden, thus allowing womanhood to assume it. The novelist who first wrote a story in which the heroine did not swim through 800 pages of sad, passive and happy tears, without the aid of a life preserver was a benefactor to humanity. So was the man who built a square house without exorcising the late eighties, and thus taught the world that it was not necessary in the interests of art to build a house which looked as if it might have been collected and arranged by a tornado on its passage through a dozen states.

Even today originality is a great blessing. Every new form of ragtime and hot volage dancing which is put out enables the world to drop the last affliction.

Originality, however, is usually indulged in to excess. It is now necessary for everyone to be original and the supply of sensible new things is put out in such quantities that the result is a deluge of originality. Originality in dress is causing thousands of runaways each year.

Originality in dress is causing thousands of runaways each year. Originality in musical comedy has reached a point where Adam and Eve would blush and retire if they had been gambling in his city and that if he had more sense he could stop it. In drama has reached a point which compels nine lawyers to work nights.

In order to think up a new and startling reason for the star's divorce, just before the fall season begins.

We would do better with less originality in these things and more in others. A politician who would vote against his own interests, a merchant who would apologize publicly for having stretched the truth in an advertisement.

"Originality in dress is causing thousands of runaways each year."

Summer Comfort

For the Stay-at-Homes.

The first warm days bring disappointments to many of us who cannot join the general summer exodus from town, but who, for one reason or another, must stay in our houses or apartments during the warm months.

We can't all go to the mountains or seashore, but, by careful and judicious expenditure, every woman can make a summer atmosphere in her own home if she chooses.

Rugs, heavy curtains, and draperies can be put carefully away, and in their place can be substituted a whole new set of things at a surprisingly low cost. There is an infinite number of floor rugs in the market to fit any size space; there are dainty fresh, cotton curtain materials in charming designs; and as for cretonnes for furniture coverings, their beauty and variety are bewildering.

Just read carefully through the housefurnishing advertisements in THE COURIER and calculate for yourself how little these summer comforts would actually cost.

CHURCH AND HOME SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING PARTIES

Well Known Young Women
of Scottsdale Captured
by Cupid.

CHOOSE BEAUTIFUL JUNE EVENING

Miss Pearl Brengle Weds Bruce M. Bare and Miss Jessie K. Smith Becomes Mrs. William McCormick in the Presence of Many Friends.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, June 19.—There were two handsome weddings celebrated in town last evening, one a church ceremony and the other a home one. A handsome affair was the marriage of Jessie K. daughter of Attorney and Mrs. J. H. Smith of Scottsdale, and William E. McCormick of Latrobe, which was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church, the pastor, Rev. J. E. Hutchinson, being the officiating clergyman, at 8 o'clock last evening. In the presence of a brilliant company, Laurel and Ferns comprised the church decorations. Miss Florence Muir presided at the organ during the ceremony. Lehenyrie was used as the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional.

Mr. Smith gave his daughter in wedding. She wore a gown of white charmeuse and tulle with satin panels, and her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil was fashioned into a dainty cap, edged with princess lace.

There were a number of attendants in the ladies' room that were accompanied by his best man, J. Grier Miller of Latrobe. The bride had for her maid of honor Miss Irene McWilliams who wore a gown of pink brocade draped de Chine, with trimmings of white shadow lace, and she carried pink Killarney roses. Mrs. A. J. Kemp was the matron of honor, and she appeared in a gown of broad white charmeuse, with drapery of chiffon and lace trimmed with ribbons, and bearing pink Killarney roses. Miss Evelyn Hess and Miss Ruth Jensen of Scottsdale and Miss Marian Clifford of Edgewood were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were of white tulle, with pink sashes and their bouquets were of pink sweet peas. The bride's mother was crowned in black chiffon over white satin, trimmed with silver embroidery and rhinestone buckles. The ushers were J. H. Schuch of Edgewood, A. Powell of Latrobe and Clifford Smith and Vincent Smith, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception given at the home of the bride's mother, Louise McCune. The house was decorated in garden roses throughout. The table of the bride's party was decorated in Killarney roses, and the place cards painted by the bride were in modern designs. The rehearsal on Tuesday evening was accompanied by a dinner at the bride's home. Her presents to her attendants were imported rose jars, and the bridegroom gave his best man and the ushers a set of cuff links, engraved with the initials of the respective.

The bride is one of the popular society girls of town and was educated at Wooster University and the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois. The bridegroom, whose parents are deceased, is a resident of Latrobe, being a draftsman in the office of the Pennsylvania Steel Spring Company. The pair will reside at Latrobe.

Among the out of town guests present were the Messrs. Anna, Rose and Ellen McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Saxman, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Connelly and a number of others from Latrobe. Miss Elizabeth Beiswenger and Miss Daisy Cover of Somerset, Miss Gertrude Clifford of Edgewood, Miss Ruth Clifford of Bradock and Mr. and Mrs. John McCune of West Newton.

HOME CEREMONY.
A lovely home ceremony united in marriage Miss Pearl Brengle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Brengle of Scottsdale, and Bruce M. Bare of Vandrevill Station, Quebec, Canada, at the home of the bride's parents last evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Harmon S. Piper of the First Methodist Episcopal Church officiated, and the impressive ceremony was witnessed. The house decorations were in pink and white. Miss Ethel Shuler was the organist and Mendelssohn's wedding march was used. Miss Josephine Haines sang a solo "Barcarolle," as a part of the musical program.

The bride had Miss Marie Coughenour, a cousin, as her maid; Miss Irene Dick of Scottsdale, as maid of honor; Mrs. Samuel Fausold of Scottsdale, a sister of the bride was her matron of honor, and Miss Mary Fausold, a sister, was the flower girl. The father of the bride gave her in marriage, and Samuel Fausold, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was the bride's best man. Berkey H. Boyd and John Haberman were the ushers.

The bride was crowned in ivory satin trimmed in duchess lace and pearl, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil was hand made and trimmed with orange blossoms.

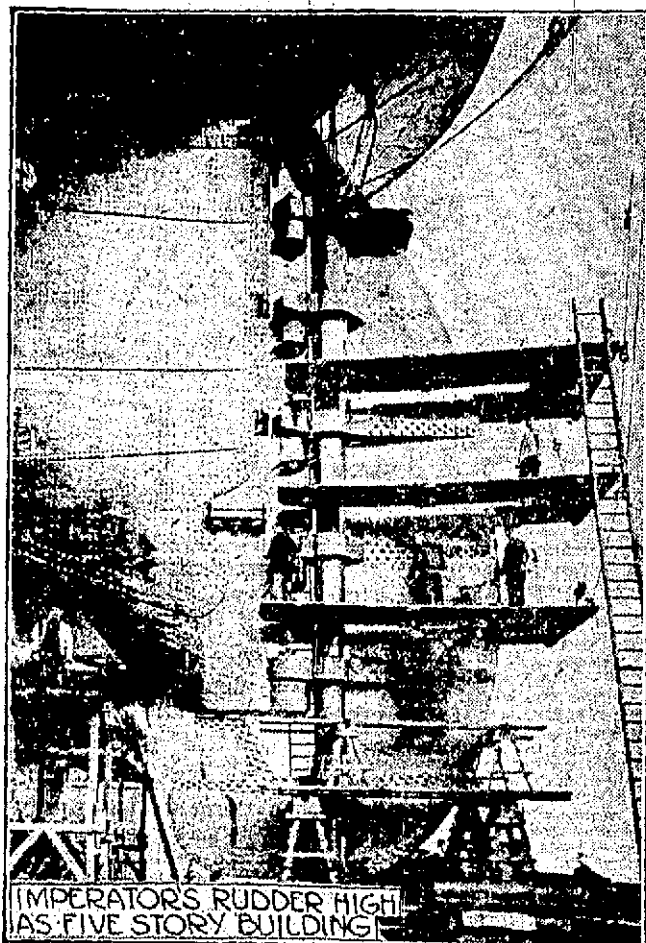

The bride is one of the most popular of the younger set, and is a graduate of the Mount Pleasant Institute. The bridegroom, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bare of York, is a graduate of Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg.

Following the ceremony there was a dinner served, the table decorations being in pink and white, a mound of Killarney roses being used as a centerpiece, and hand-painted place cards being used.

After a wedding trip throughout the east the pair will reside at Vandrevill Station, Quebec, where the bridegroom is assistant superintendent of the Canadian Explosive Company, limited.

Among the out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bare, Miss Edna Bare, Miss Miriam Bare and Mrs. Archibald Miller, all of York; Messrs. Maud and Josephine Huges of Latrobe; Dr. Amy E. White of Chester; Dr. and Mrs. J. W.

The Big Ship Arrives Safely.

IMPERATORS RUDDER HIGH AS FIVE STORY BUILDING

LARGEST SHIP ARRIVES.

Imperator, Welcomed at New York, 1913, Dock Today.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The giant steamship Imperator, the greatest triumph of the shipbuilders' art, passed Sandy Hook at 10.55 last night, its first voyage across the Atlantic save for the 15 miles up New York Bay. The great vessel was ablaze with lights from stem to stern and was a magnificent sight as it neared Sandy Hook.

Captain Russer mentioned that the best day's run was 558 miles. When the Imperator passed the Hook a small fleet of sea boats turned loose with the first welcome to America and kept it up until the Imperator was well on its way to quarantine.

Repairing the Cross-over. The West Penn had a gang of 12 men at work all night, raising the cross-over on Main street on the West Side. The men started work at 7.30 P. M. and were working until 6 A. M. The track is still in good condition but they had sunk so low that it made a bad crossing. New ballast was placed.

To Build a Sarcophagus. A. W. Hart, the West Side monument man, has secured the contract for a large granite sarcophagus for the William Parkhill lot in the Hill Grove cemetery. Mr. Hart expects to have the monument ready in two months.

SCOTSDALE WOMEN ACTIVE IN MISSIONARY AFFAIRS

Contributed Much to Growth of Interest in Allegheny District of United Brethren Church.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, June 19.—To the 35th annual convention of the Allegheny Branch Woman's Missionary Association of the United Brethren church held in Greensburg this locality sent 30 people. The delegates were Mrs. J. J. Shorick, Miss Ella King and Mrs. Ralph Stoner for Scottsdale, and Mrs. Thomas McGill for Owensdale. Misses Leah Shupe and Miss Rose Hutchinson represented the Otterbein Guild. Miss Ethel Shuler was delegate from the juniors, and Miss Mildred Stoner for the intermediates. There was an enrollment of 18 members in the convention, 51 of whom were present for the first time.

In 1903 the branch had 16 organizations with 471 members, 174 subscribers to "The Evangel," and an offering of $322.26. The growth may be seen by the fact that this year there are 64 organizations with 2,807 members, 1,100 subscribers to "The Evangel" and an offering of $5,138.63.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: President, Mrs. L. H. Lutzell of Scottsdale; first vice president, Mrs. J. S. Fulton of Johnstown; second vice president, Mrs. W. L. Fulton of East Liberty; third vice president, Mrs. Margaret Harpster of Altoona; recording and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Albert Keister of Scottsdale; treasurer, Mrs. Clara Keister of Wilkesburg; secretary of literature, Mrs. L. C. Fleury of Youngwood; secretary of Otterbein Guild, Miss Elsie Hall of Huntington; district superintendent, Mrs. W. H. Spangler of Philadelphia; Mrs. G. C. Blair of Wilkesburg; Mrs. Emma Kelly of McKeesport; Mrs. Harriett A. Wink of Altoona; Mrs. Kate Burkett of Altoona; Mrs. Cora Spangler of Johnstown; Mrs. C. W. Winey of Bellefonte and Mrs. E. M. Gungawere of Irwin. One of the pretty features of the convention was the presentation to Mrs. L. H. Lutzell of Scottsdale of 20 beautiful white lilies, each lily representing a year of unselfish and efficient service as president of the branch. Miss Keister of Scottsdale, the secretary, and Mrs. Keister of Wilkesburg, the treasurer, were each presented with a bouquet of roses, as a testimonial of their excellent work in the branch.

TWO MILLS CLOSED

Labor Troubles Cause Indefinite Suspension of Business.

Two steel mills in Pittsburgh territory have closed within the past 10 days, because of labor troubles and are not likely to open again for some time. The Superior Steel Company at Carnegie refused to be harassed by labor agitators who were stirring up the foreign workmen and suspended the plant indefinitely, causing idleness of 2,000 employees.

The West Leeburg Steel Company at West Leeburg suffered from a cutoff of its mill men and 700 men became idle indefinitely. In the latter case the officials say the closing is opportune and causes them no inconvenience. The plant makes sheets and was fully up on its contract obligations.

KENTUCKY COAL FIELDS ARE BEING DEVELOPED RAPIDLY.

Interesting Story Is Told of the Harlan County Field, Where Rich Seam Has Attracted Operators; Description of the Coal and the Extent Operations Have Increased During the Past Two Years; Wisconsin Steel Company Largest Operator.

Because of the unusual activity in the Kentucky coal fields, the description of the Harlan County coal field, compiled by W. R. Peck and H. J. Samson, mining engineers of that section, in the Coal Age, is of especial interest at this time. The Harlan County field is one of the subdivisions of the Cumberland Gap coal field. The coal is a high volatile fuel and is said to possess good coking properties. Development is of comparatively recent date. The map gives a good idea of the field. Coal Age says:

Harlan County lies in the southeastern part of Kentucky on the state line between Virginia and Kentucky, at the head waters of the Cumberland river. It is entirely cut off from Virginia and her railroads by the Cumberland mountains and the Little and Big Black mountains, along the crests of which runs the state line. On the western side of the county, the Pine mountain also cuts off the main part of the county from the waters of the Kentucky river and the railroad that follows that stream. Therefore, all freight to and from the county must follow the waters of the Cumberland river.

The county is very mountainous, the valleys narrow and there is only a small area of flat land along the streams. The mountains vary in height from the innumerable low spurs to the main ridges, which in many instances rise more than 2,000 feet above the valleys. On the accompanying map are shown several elevations which give the general heights of the ridges.

This district is a part of the Cumberland Gap coal field. The geological structure is that of a flat-bottomed syncline with its axis almost parallel to the Cumberland river. The axis of the syncline rises with slow dips until they are sharply overturned in the Pine mountain on the northwest by the Pine mountain fault and in the Cumberland mountain on the northeast, by the Powell's valley anticline. Between these two boundaries lie the Black mountains and Martin's Fork ridges.

The outcropping rocks in the last named mountains are sandstones, shales and coal beds. No continuous limestone beds have been found, although a bed of fossil limestone about 12 inches thick has been reported high up in the Big Black mountain. The shales and sandstones are about equally developed, the sandstone probably predominating. The lower part is principally sandstone and contains some fairly coarse conglomerate.

The Lee conglomerate, called here the Lee sandstone, is the lowermost of the coal measures. It does not outcrop in the Harlan field, but is seen on the north bank of the Pine mountain, where it is brought up by the Pine mountain fault. Above the Lee there is about 2,500 feet of sandstone and shale in nearly equal proportions. In the Big and Little Black mountains and Martin's Fork ridge and their spurs, occur the workable coals. The coal in the Pine and Cumberland mountains is so badly split up and on such a heavy pitch that it is practically worthless at the present time.

At the foot of the crest of the Black mountains there are a great number of coal beds, outcropping, but we will only attempt to describe those which in some part of the district are of economic value, taking them in order and beginning at the bottom.

The Harlan seam, which is the lowest that is commercially workable, is the most regular and the most valuable. It lies between massive sandstone beds, the top one of which is usually less than three feet above the coal and in many instances, rests directly on it; there is probably an average of nine inches of shale between. Underneath the coal there is usually a shale bed of varying thickness, which is too hard to be cut by chain machines.

This coal is readily located by the fact that it lies 250 feet above the Galloway sandstone, which outcrops all along the river and often forms prominent cliffs. It is generally known as a 4-foot seam and has been opened in numerous places in the central, southern and western portions of the county. Eastward just above the mouth of Sawney's creek, at a distance of about 14 miles above the town of Harlan, the coal goes under the river; at this point there is 3 feet 6 inches of clean coal.

The Harlan Coal Mining Company, operating on Clover Fork in the Little Black mountains at a distance of three and one-half miles above the town of Harlan, has developed from 45 to 47 inches of clean coal, in a spur of the mountain; this is expected to be 54 to 56 inches in the main ridge, as has already been proved in an opening at the head of the hollow just west of the present operations. The Ages Ridges Coal Company, operating in the Big Black mountain, on Clover Fork five miles east of Harlan, has found 42 to 46 inches of clean coal; this should thicken as they progress east to a maximum of 59 inches as shown in an old opening near the center of their property.

In general, the seam in the Big Black mountain shows a uniform section of from 48 to 50 inches of clean coal on the outcrop. On the northeast side of Martin's Fork there is 50 to 55 inches of coal in the upper bench, with from 12 to 24 inches in a bottom bench, the two being separated by 6 to 18 inches of shale.

In the eastern part of the county this coal is under drainage. On Ewing's creek, in the lower end of the county, on the property of the Willott Coal Company, there is a seam from 140 to 160 feet under the Harlan coal. This seam is 36 inches thick and usually has some partings. This is the only place in the county where it has been found with this thickness, but it has not been thoroughly prospected for yet.

The Harlan seam, in general, dips slightly in a northerly direction. The following is an analysis of some crop coal from the Harlan seam: Volatile matter, 33.3; fixed carbon, 65.3; moisture, 1.7; ash, 3.3; sulphur, 0.9.

The Bed or Seam B, which has no importance in the western part of the county is the most persistent, though not the most valuable in the eastern portion. It lies about 140 feet above the Harlan seam.

Kelloka seam, which occurs about 200 to 250 feet above the Harlan coal, has not been thoroughly prospected for in the lower or western part of the county; however, where opened it shows a section of 3 feet 8 inches to 4 feet. It is mined at Keokuk, Va., as the McConnell seam and is probably the Darby or No. 5 seam mined in the Pocket district of Virginia, as well as the Tangier seam mined at Ikona, Va.

The Wisconsin Steel Company is mining this seam at Benham, Ky., 27 miles above the town of Harlan, where it has 5 feet 6 inches of coal produced either by mining. There is also a seam in the eastern end of the county about 60 feet above the Kelloka, which averages 3 feet 6 inches of clean coal. The following is a typical analysis of the Kelloka coal: Volatile matter, 33.6; fixed carbon, 64.3; moisture, 1.8; ash, 2.3; sulphur, 0.36.

The Walling Creek coal, named for Walling creek of the Cumberland river, has a thickness of 9 feet with a 6-inch parting, 18 inches from the bottom, leaving a top bench of 7 feet of clean coal. The following is an analysis of the Walling Creek coal: Volatile matter, 32.4; fixed carbon, 62.1; moisture, 2.3; ash, 7.6; sulphur, 0.38.

The Looney seam, opened in several places in the high knobs of the Little Black mountain, shows from 4 feet 3 inches to 5 feet of coal and usually has a small shale parting. The Lower High Split coal lying from 300 to 350 feet above the Looney seam in the Big Black mountain, shows more than 3 feet of minable coal. The Middle Split averages about a foot in the Big Black mountain. The Upper High Split occurs 400 feet above the Looney and is the most valuable of the high seams in the Big Black mountain; it varies from 4 to 6 feet, with practically no parting. In one place it shows 8 feet 6 inches of coal with a 6-inch shale parting one foot from the floor.

For several years past companies and individuals have been acquiring coal lands in the county. However, no move was made toward building a railroad until the early spring of 1907 when T. J. Asher began the construction of some thirteen miles up the Cumberland river, in Bell County, to reach the operations of his own property. This was known as the Wustolo & Black Mountain railroad. The Louisville & Nashville railroad then acquired it and completed it to Benham some twenty miles above the town of Harlan. When this line was completed work began on a branch up Clover Fork to Ages Creek, a distance of five miles.

While the road was under construction leases were taken by mining companies and the installation of plants begun. At the present time there are six companies in the county shipping coal. The Wisconsin Steel Company's operation at Benham is at present by far the most important in the county.

At present all of their coal is converted into coke for which purpose they have built 300 ovens of the beehive type, a breaker equipped with two crushers and eight conveyors driven by motors. The slack is conveyed to the ovens by electrically-driven barries. Their output is 20 cars of coke per day. A brick power house in which they have installed two 355-kw and one 150-kw generators, direct connected. POSTAL BONDS INCREASE

Pennsylvania Depositors Show Desire to Make Permanent Investments.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—There is a slow growth in the demand for postal savings bonds from Pennsylvania depositors shown by the amount to be issued July 1 that have been applied for at the various Pennsylvania offices. The total of bonds applied for in the state by 100 persons is $52,000, of which $3,110 are coupon and $48,890 registered bonds, the latter being usually asked for by people who want none. This is an increase over the applications for the July issue of bonds were made in 10 cities of the state, in amounts ranging from $500 to $800. From Pittsburgh the applications amounted to only $1,200, although the total of postal savings deposited May 31 was $125,864; from Altoona, $2,280; Erie, $2,400; Hollidaysburg, $2,211; Uniontown, $1,500; Ford City, $1,800; Clarion, $1,400; McKeesport, $1,100; Titusville, $1,100; Meadville, $1,000, and Williamsport, $340.

HAPPY IN THE PRESENT AND HOPEFUL FOR FUTURE

Is the Sentiment in the Steel Trade Just Now; Cancellations Few and Prices Firm.

From The Weekly Courier. NEW YORK, June 18.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will say in its review of the steel market tomorrow morning: "Sentimentally at least, the tone of the finished steel market is improved this week, whether from continued good crop prospects, from the spectacle of mills being able to run full even though the new business has been light for two or three months, or from the firmer tone shown by the big iron markets."

New business in steel products continues light, and no general buying movement is expected in the immediate future. Predictions are increasing, however, that a buying movement will start in August. Cancellations and postponements, always the fear of the finished steel trade in a quiet market, prove to be inconsequential in the case of a large tonnage involved, and in the aggregate the tonnage thus affected is a bagatelle compared with the amount of sound business still left on mill books. Specifications on old contracts for steel products may be estimated as running from 60% to 70% of shipments. At this rate of loss many of the mills will nevertheless enjoy practically full operation in 1914.

The great point in the steel situation is the fact that actual ultimate consumption is maintaining, and is at the moment substantially at the greatest rate on record. However new buying may be reduced or retarded, from transient causes, the outstanding suggestion is that consumption will not be below that level for some time to come. It is the continuance of heavy consumption will force the resumption of buying.

Prices of the most important steel products are strictly maintained and there is no material sliding at any point from the highest level attained in the recent movement. Sheets have been the most uncertain commodity on the list and they have declined not more than $2 a ton altogether to a level not below that of the contracts now being filled.

Pig iron has been showing a firmer undertone, and Conneltsville coke is decidedly stiff in the circumstances.

A LITERARY ROMANCE.

Pathetic Ending of the Love Story of the Post Laforgue.

In George Moore's "Impressions and Opinions" is told the touching love story of the poet Laforgue, who was reader to the empress of Germany.

One winter day in Berlin Jules saw a girl skating as none ever skated before. The grace of the waist, the flowing hair and the feet lifted beneath the dark skirt filled him with happiness. The beautiful skater was an English girl.

He resigned his place as reader to the empress and married, and he and the beautiful English girl came to Paris in the hope that literature would yield them a living. But Laforgue's genius was of the kind that wins the sympathy of the elect, and instead of making his living with his pen Jules grew more and more consumptive.

I have heard that the young people lived in a poor apartment—two or three rooms—and that the beautiful English girl, now stricken with the dreadful malady, passed between the rooms with Charles Flourens climbed the high stairs to see them on Thursday evenings; a few admirers attended Jules' funeral and published the volume he left in his desk, "Les Morales Legendaires"; the girl died soon after—two or three months.

How did she live during the brief interval? Where is she buried? Nobody knows. Yet I have a separate and complete sensation of these two little lives.

Thieves and Their Feet. A city missionary whose work brings him in contact with thieves was later asked in their frequent mention of a certain chiropodist whom they had patronized.

"I shouldn't think," said the missionary, "that men of your calling would have either the time or the money to foot away on chiropodists."

"We're just the kind that need to foot away time and money on them," one ex-burglar explained. "Of all persons on earth men in our line can least afford to be made nervous by bad feet. Creeping around in a strange place in the dark is ticklish business at the best. It requires above all things sound feet and comfortable shoes. To kick a corn or bunion against a bureau might knock the most profitable job of the season into a cocked hat."—New York Times.

Army Head Starts Inquiry Into Slaying Of American Soldiers in Zolo Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Major General J. Franklin Bell, commanding the Philippine division of the army, was called upon by the War Department for a report in regard to the operations which General Pershing is conducting against the Moros in the island of Zolo. Several American soldiers were killed or wounded. The present uprising in the island of Zolo represents the resentment that is felt by some of the Moros over an effort on the part of General Pershing to bring about the complete disarmament of the tribe in the southern Philippines. General Pershing concluded more than a year ago that this was necessary as a final step toward permanent peace in the archipelago.

A Stirring Story of Military Adventure and a Strange Wartime Wooing, Founded on the Great Play of the Same Name

By BRONSON HOWARD AND HENRY TYRELL
Illustrations From Actual Wartime Photographs by Brady

COPYRIGHT, 1912, BY G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS

PROLOGUE.

This thrilling romance of love, war, patriotism and adventure in the valley of Virginia, 1861-5, has a vivid historical and scenic setting. The whole stirring panorama of the mighty struggle that preserved the Union is outlined as a background to the romantic love drama continuously occupying the stage, the dramatic personae of which are famous soldiers and typical civilians on both sides. This novel, like the play which ranks as Bronson Howard's masterpiece and which has held undiminished popularity on the stage for a quarter of a century past, is broadly non-partisan in spirit and abounds in striking characters, with effective contrasts of pathos and comedy. The illustrations are particularly interesting because a majority of them are actual wartime photographs of famous generals, camps, batteries, historic scenes and typical soldiers who wore both the blue and the gray.

CHAPTER I.

Haughty Old Charleston.

CHARLESTON always looks to us as if it had drifted bodily across the Atlantic from old France or Spain," said Colonel Haverill as he stood gazing out backward from the pillared veranda of the roomy colonial mansion fronting on the East Battery.

It was early spring of the year 1861. Sky and water in that southern seaport were blue, but it was the soft, dreamy blue of Mediterranean shores. Nights of velvet dusk were lit with strangely large, low hung stars. The magnolias were not yet in bloom, but amid the moss veiled live oaks already the mockingbirds sang, or rather rhymed in language of golden tone, as if condoling thrilling secrets that burst from stifled hearts.

Such were the enviable conditions, heightened rather than restrained by the political turmoil of the time, under which an oddly assorted group of people of various ages and conditions, and including besides Charlestonians

a number of representatives of other sections of the south as well as of northern states, planned the Ellingham ball for the second week in April.

Colonel Haverill of the regular army of the United States had been a Mexican war comrade of the late Colonel Ellingham of Virginia. When Ellingham died Haverill became the guardian of his two children, Robert and Gertrude.

Robert was duly graduated from West Point and with his classmates, Kerchival West of Massachusetts, went, with the rank of lieutenant, to see active service on the plains in the regiment of Colonel Haverill. Ordered to Washington, Colonel Haverill and his wife were now traveling northward via Charleston, accompanied by Lieutenants Ellingham and West. Gertrude Ellingham had come on from the family homestead in the Shenandoah

ed. His only son, Frank, was at that time a boy of fourteen, bright and spirited; but, as the colonel declared with real modification, evidently not cut out for a soldier. That most incontestable deficiency—in the father's eyes—gave color to the assertion, made not by Mrs. Haverill alone, that the colonel thought more of his young southern wards, Robert and Gertrude Ellingham, than he did of his own son.

However this may have been, the colonel's young wife more than made up to the lad the deprivation of his father's full measures of paternal confidence and affection. Having no children of her own, she gave to the boy what in his infancy he had never known—a mother's loving care. As he grew up in New York amid good family associations and in comfortable circumstances, seeing little of his father and experiencing the treacherousness without the companionship of that parent's strict control, it was not to be wondered at if Frank came perilously near to being spoiled.

After graduation from Columbia—instead of from West Point, as the colonel would have desired if such a choice could have been realized in the natural course of events—Frank Haverill entered the banking house of the Howards, relatives of his stepmother. This had seemed a promising connection—it might have led, possibly, to another matrimonial alliance through one of the pretty daughters of the family on whom the young clerk was known to have made a most favorable impression—when suddenly he ran away with and married Edith Meury, a nice enough girl, as it was said, but two or three years his senior and the daughter of an impoverished southern family whose home was in New Orleans.

This was bad enough. Still a rash love match is not in itself an unpardonable sin. Frank was forgiven. At least a truce was patched up and the prodigal son went back repentant, as it seemed, to his stool at the bank.

Alas, the prodigal climax was yet to come. His beginnings had dated back even to the college days. Edward Thornton had been much in New York then. He had first met the Haverills at Saratoga. Handsome, reckless, a social favorite and sportsman of no small pretensions, Thornton had immediately exercised over young Frank an influence amounting to fascination and hero worship. Those were flush times of racing, of gambling, of drinking and—south of Mason and Dixon's line especially—of dueling. Thornton took the eager, precocious boy in hand and "made a man" of him. It was such a "man" as the colonel, his father, absent most of the time on western duty, never dreamed.

Matters were in such strained relations now when the colonel and his wife stopped at Charleston on their way north. And it was at this fateful moment that the last stroke fell.

The day before the Ellingham ball Colonel Haverill learned from the New York newspapers and simultaneously by letter from his lawyers there that his son was an absconder and a fugitive. Under suspicion on account of irregularities discovered at the Howard bank, he had fled, no one knew whither, to escape arrest, leaving his wife deserted and without resources.

Colonel Haverill's grief and rage were fearful.

"I might have expected it," he said. "And yet, hadn't I enough else on my mind just now without being brought to face a thing like this? Well, let fate deal with him. He deserves the worst that can happen. I am through with him. I have always done my best by him; now I have other and more important duties to perform. I am an officer of the United States army."

"Don't judge him too hastily, John. May it not have been that it was only after another was dependent on him that the debts of a thoughtless spendthrift for he was nothing worse—drove him to desperation—to fraud, perhaps—I will not believe crime."

"His wife shall be provided for—my lawyers have their instructions," replied the colonel curtly.

Mrs. Haverill stole softly out of the room, closing the door behind her, passed through the spacious galleries and down the broad winding stairs to the drawing room.

Everywhere, as Mrs. Haverill descended after her troublous interview with the colonel, the younger people were blissfully lounging or circulating about still talking love and war.

They had a new and breezy accession to their ranks in the person of Jenny Buckthorn, U. S. A. She was the daughter of bluff old General Francis Buckthorn of the regular army and had been born and brought up in a military camp on the western plains.

"We're going to see active service now—sooner than you civilians seem to suspect," announced Jenny to an attentive group of listeners under the front portico. "Our boys are already under marching orders in Washington. Your General Beauregard is riding his high horse! It seems. Tell him for me that he'd better mind what he's doing or we'll have Heartsense down here after him."

"And who is Heartsense, pray?" inquired Gertrude Ellingham, who of late was developing an unwonted interest in the federal military service.

"Heartsense? Brevet Captain Heartsense? Why, he is one of my favorite cavalry officers. You'll hear about him."

"Yes—wherever Miss Buckthorn is for five minutes or so," whispered Bob Ellingham to Madeline West. "I know Heartsense. Not a bad fellow, but the biggest top that was ever mislaid into the cavalry. You ought to hear what General Buckthorn says about him. Wears a single eyeglass at guard mount, and carries a scented lace handkerchief at cross country drill."

Gertrude Ellingham drew Jenny aside and asked her:

"How is it to have a sweetheart who is a soldier?"

"It's all right," answered Jenny promptly. "I wouldn't have a sweetheart who wasn't a soldier—a northern soldier, of course."

A flush of pleasure stole over Gertrude's face, then died out as suddenly as it had come.

Madeline West murmured to Robert Ellingham:

"It is only lately that I have realized there are northern soldiers and southern soldiers. I thought there was but one flag, and that you all served under it."

"That is what I was brought up to believe," replied the young lieutenant, "but some unaccountable change has come about."

"But it seems to me," interposed Kerchival West, "that the people of Charleston are taking an extraordinary interest in the preparations to bombard Fort Sumter. They look forward to such an event as if it were to be a gala day."

It was at this juncture that Mrs. Haverill appeared. Before she had time to join the group Thornton hastened forward to meet her and said in a low, hurried tone:

"I must see you alone. I have important news for you."

"Are there any further tidings of Frank?" she inquired eagerly.

"Yes. We must not talk here"—as they passed out together into the hall and paused at the foot of the stairs—"Frank is here in Charleston."

The halls were decked and garlanded, ball dresses were laid out in readiness, and the young people were practicing minuetts.

Toward twilight Kerchival West and Robert Ellingham strolled across the Battery park and along the old sea wall together.

"Bob, old comrade," the former began, "I have something I want to mention to you."

"Is it about Thornton?"

"It is about Mrs. Haverill, the colonel's wife."

"I understand—certainly, old boy—tell me all you know about it."

"Well, I was passing along the gallery of the second floor on my way to my room when I heard a muffled scream, then a lady's voice uttering violent, or rather, hysterical, exclamations. The sounds came from one of the principal guest rooms, as I supposed, but whose I didn't know. Then the door was opened hastily, and Mrs. Haverill appeared, looking alarmingly ill or else terribly frightened and trembling with excitement."

"And was any one with her?"

"Not that I know of. I did have an impression—anyway, she recovered herself quickly after I had saturated my handkerchief with ammonia and eau de Cologne and anything else that I could get to be at hand and given it to her. It would be all right she said, and I was not to let such a foolish little incident disturb me on any account. Still!"

"Still, the 'foolish little incident' must have had a serious cause behind it, isn't it?"

"So I thought. But it may have been only a mouse."

"Or it may have been Thornton. I was right," exclaimed Ellingham, striking the clinched fist of one hand into the palm of the other.

"Then, by heaven, Bob!"

"I mustn't get to the colonel. Leave Thornton to me."

"A pretext is all that is necessary. If you don't find it I will."

They shook hands in silence, then hurried in to dress.

Robert and Kerchival were as eager as any one for the dancing, yet they could not enter into the spirit of the affair and engage their partners (as a matter of fact, these latter, morning chiefly Madeline and Gertrude, did not make a general appearance in the parlors) until their anxiety about Mrs. Haverill's ailment was allayed. Would she find an excuse to avoid the ordeal of a gayety under the eyes of at least two persons who knew of the shock she had suffered but a few hours previously?

CHAPTER II.

After the Ball.

NO such concern seemed to hold Edward Thornton back. He was here, there and everywhere, overhauling if anything the role of "the life of the party" and never missing a dance.

Suddenly the colonel's beautiful wife, flanked by the two vivacious girls, and herself looking the picture of health and radiance in a specially modish ball gown of flowered satin, sailed into the salon like the star of a stage play.

It was the official, formal opening of the ball.

"Do you know what Mrs. Pinckney says?" Gertrude Ellingham asked Lieutenant Kerchival West. "She has invited a party of friends to her house to witness the firing on Sumter."

"How delightful!" responded Kerchival in rather a forced tone of joy.

ety. "I hope, however, that they won't wait for breakfast until the fortress is bombarded."

"You think it will be a long wait? Well, Lieutenant West, I'll bet you an embroidered cigar case against a box of gloves that the first gun is fired before sunrise."

"Done. You will lose the bet, Miss Gertrude, unless Major Ruffin, unable to curb his patience any longer, should steal out and touch off a mortar on his own hook. Not that I shouldn't be overjoyed to offer you the gloves, particularly if—well, in the hope that—that one of the little hands belonging inside them shall!"

They were in the shadow of the elephants as he spasmodically seized one of the aforesaid little hands. She withdrew it almost as promptly, murmuring:

"Shall remain in my own keeping for the present until some one comes along who has a good excuse for claiming it. So you don't believe that General Beauregard is going to open fire on Sumter this morning?"

"No, of course not."

"Well, I happen to know that everything is in readiness."

"It is a heap easier to have everything in readiness to do a thing than it is to do it. For instance, I have been ready a dozen times today to say to you, Miss Gertrude, that—that I—"

"Well, sir?"

"But I didn't, you know."

"Very likely General Beauregard has more nerve than you have."

"Oh, it is easy enough to set a few batteries around Charleston harbor. But when it comes to firing the first shot at woman!"

"At a woman! Why, what are you talking about?"

"I mean at the American flag. A man must be a—must have the nerves of—"

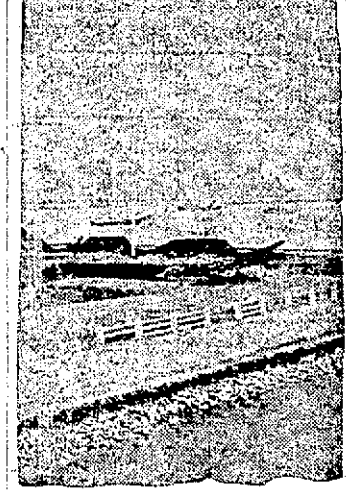

"You northern men are so slow to—"

"Yes, I know I've been slow, but I assure you, Miss Gertrude, that my heart!"

"Aren't you going north to join in the threatened invasion of our southern Confederate states?"

"Yes, that's our orders, I believe."

"You are ready to fight against my friends, against my own brother, your

They Met by the Battery Sea Wall.

comrade. If that don't make us enemies what does?"

"Nothing can make me your enemy, Gertrude. My services belong to my country at call. I belong to the north!"

"And I am a southern woman. There the fatal line is drawn."

"Have Thornton and Jenny Buckthorn come up?"

"I'm glad the attack on Sumter is to be made at last," declared Thornton.

"I do not share your pleasure in that prospect," said a serious voice over Gertrude's shoulder. It was that of her brother, Lieutenant Robert Ellingham.

"And you a southern gentleman!" retorted Thornton, with the customary shade of insolence.

"And you a northern gentleman!" gave to the word "gentleman" it actually seemed to be in quotation marks with an interrogation point after it.

"I am a southerner, by choice. I shall join the cause," said Thornton curtly.

"We can take care of our own rights, sir. They will be safe in our keeping, even if you should not find it to your interest to run risks in our behalf."

"You'll find me ready for any risk you like," muttered Thornton, turning on his heel.

At the same moment Colonel Haverill, who had not participated in the dancing, approached from the direction of his wife's apartment. He held in his hand a white silk handkerchief, which he immediately offered to Lieutenant West, who took it, glanced at the initials—his own—thanked his superior officer and passed out to the veranda overlooking the lawn, where many colored lanterns twinkled. Here, smothered as it by preconcerted arrangement, Mrs. Haverill joined him a moment later.

"Madam," said the young man, with embarrassed solicitude, "I beg to tell you how happy I am to see that your indisposition has vanished—also to offer humble apologies for my awkwardness and helplessness when I undertook to rush to your aid. You can always depend upon me to act the part of an idiot in such an emergency. Fortunately I was able to find Miss Gertrude and my sister and send them to you in time to be of real service. Colonel Haverill has just handed me back my handkerchief."

"Oh, thank you, Lieutenant, for everything. I suppose my husband had been to my room looking for me. Something came up today that has upset us both a bit. And it is in regard to that matter that I wish to ask you to do me a favor—a great service. Will you?"

"Pray command me, Mrs. Haverill," answered Kerchival with his heart thumping in wild, wondering excitement.

"It is about the colonel's son, Frank. You know the trouble he has got into in New York. He has escaped arrest, and I have just received word that he is here in Charleston. I am the only one he can turn to. His father is stern and uncompromising in his humiliation. I want you to find Frank and arrange for me to meet him as soon as possible, if you can do it with safety. I shall give you a letter for him. If possible, it is a and errand, and I know of none but yourself whom I can trust with it."

Lieutenant Kerchival West bowed profoundly.

"I will get ready at once," he said. "I can change my clothes in five minutes."

The abrupt departure of Thornton and Lieutenants West and Ellingham, accompanied, as it appeared, by Dr. Ellingham and one or two of the young men in uniform, had not failed to attract attention and excite comment. Mrs. Haverill by discreet inquiry among the household servants, obtained a startling hint or two which she hastened to communicate in confidence to Gertrude—none else.

"There are tears in your eyes, Gertrude," said Mrs. Haverill sympathetically.

"They have no right there," returned the girl, with a pitiful flash of the old spirit that contrasted with the scared look on her unwontedly pale face.

"I am afraid I know—not what has happened to Lieutenant West in those last few minutes, but—forgive a woman who has had more experience than you have, dear, and who is fond of you—what happened between you and him when you were together for the last time, maybe, in—who knows how long? Let fate part you, if it must, but not a quarrel. What is pride or coquetry at such a moment?"

"Another rocket," cried Madeline West, sitting from somewhere in the outer darkness. "Does any one know where Rob—I mean where Lieutenant Ellingham is? He excused himself for a minute and he has been gone an hour and a half. He promised to be here before!"

"So did Lieutenant West," Mrs. Haverill joined in with undisguised anxiety.

"Boom, came a loud, sudden, reverberating report from over the bay."

"Look!" screamed Gertrude Ellingham, jumping up in a frenzy of excitement. "Did you see that line of fire against the sky. That was no rocket—that was a shell. It has struck the fort!"

At the same instant there was a loud clatter of horses' hoofs outside and Bob Ellingham dashed up the front steps.

"Ruffin has fired the shot!" he cried, throwing his cap into the air. "Hark! there goes another one. They have opened fire on Sumter, sure enough!"

"Where is Mr. West? Mr. Thornton? The doctor?" demanded the three women, all in a breath.

"They are—Anderson doesn't reply—That's what I rode back alone to tell you. It's all right. The second shot hit Thornton, and Kerchival hasn't a scratch. He'll be along with the doctor directly. Ruffin swore he would fire the first!"

"For heaven's sake, Robert, what are you talking about?" pleaded Gertrude, seizing him by the arm. "Do try and compose yourself and tell us what has happened. You say that?"

"Kerchival and Thornton have had it out, I tell you. Beauregard has 3,000 or 4,000 men under arms, and it's a chance if Anderson can muster a hundred. Well, as I was saying, they met in the gardens down at the bayou. Sam Pinckney and myself loaded the weapons, a pair of regulation navy sizes. Then we tossed up a silver dollar for choice of position at ten paces, and Thornton won. But that made no difference, for the sun wasn't up yet!"

"Mercy! Was it a duel? Mrs. Haverill interjected.

"It certainly was, madam. Kerchival scored at the second fire. His bullet plowed through Thornton's cheek, branding him, but nothing dangerous. The doctor is with him, and old Kerchival is all right and coming along after me any minute. Well, that trifling affair is over and well over. Something more important has started. I thought you'd all be anxious to know that!"

"Madam, I have to beg your pardon for my unexpectedly prolonged absence and to report for orders."

This last was the voice of Kerchival, looking uncommonly pale and animated, addressing himself to Mrs. Haverill.

MILLIONS Die of Kidney Disease. Tens of Thousands Have It Right Now and Never Suspect It.

The surest and wisest plan to always keep the kidneys healthy and free from poisonous matter that leads to Bright's disease, dropsy and other serious diseases is to take a few doses of Thompson's Barosma every three months.

It is a harmless vegetable remedy put up in liquid form, is quickly assimilated and gets to the sick kidneys at once. If your kidneys are weak, inflamed or clogged up, Thompson's Barosma will put them in splendid shape again. If they are not diseased, this greatest of all kidney remedies will tone up your system anyway.

Grakam & Co., Connellsville, S. A. Lowe & Co., Scottsdale, sell Thompson's Barosma for 50c and $1 a bottle on money back plan. It never fails to cure, backache, aches, sharp shooting pains and all kidney, liver or bladder disease. In conjunction with Barosma always take Thompson's Dandelion and Mandrake Pills (25 cents) when constipation is present. Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa.—Advertisement.

SECOND HALF COKE CONTRACTS REMAIN FAST DEADLOCKED

Merchant Operators Standing Pat for $2.50; Other Offers Withdrawn.

WILL RESTRICT PRODUCTION

Producers Will Thus Avoid Depressing Effects of Surplus Cokes Stock and Show Furnacemen a Good Example.
A Better Outlook for Pig Iron.

From The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, June 18.—The deadlock on second half furnace coke contracts is still more pronounced. Recent offers, mentioned in last report,
to sell at $2.25 have been withdrawn.
There does not appear to be any active inquiry in the market. The asking price is $2.50.

Furnacemen still hold to the view that they ought to secure coke at $2 or less, so that buyers and sellers are very far apart. Neither side shows any anxiety, each feels that it has cards yet to play. The consumers hold that they can readily buy in the prompt market and thus beat the contract price, since the top of the prompt market for many weeks has been $2.25 and it has usually been possible to shade this by 5 to 10 cents.
The operators, on the other hand, are undecided to intend pursuing the policy of blowing out orders in proportion to the contracts they hold which will expire June 30, if they follow
this policy an immediate strengthening in the market would necessarily result, as no added production would be thrown into the prompt market,
while on the other hand the furnacemen
whose contracts had expired would add a large prompt demand. The outcome of the present deadlock
clearly hinges entirely upon whether production is really curtailed to the contract requirements.

The prompt market has proved just a shade easier in the past week, as the limited demand developed has been satisfied at about $2.10, against $2.15 done formerly. There has been a slight decline in foundry coke. There is some talk of a contract at $2.75,
and fairly more than $3 asked on contract. Prompt foundry coke is hardly as easy, being affected by labor
shortages with respect to forking cars,
and the minimum for foundry coke
grades seems to be about $2.75, with $3 the minimum as to several favorite brands. The market now stands
quotable as follows:
Prompt furnace $2.10
Contract furnace $2.25
Prompt foundry $2.15
Contract foundry $2.75
Reduction in coke consumption in the past few weeks has been quite small, only a very few furnaces having been blown out. It is not likely that many more furnaces will be blown out in the next month or two,
as the steel works show signs of running practically full, and demand
for merchant pig iron has slightly increased. Of course, furnaces do not work as well in the hot weather, and their coke consumption is slightly reduced on this account.

The tone of the local pig iron market has somewhat improved in the past week. Instead of the continued decline which covered a period of nearly
six months there are stationary prices,
with less tendency to cut than formerly, and it can be said that regularly
quoted prices are more firmly sustained to them at any time during the decline having to still in very small
lots, but the number of transactions,
particularly in foundry iron, has decidedly increased. Consumers as yet show no disposition to take large lots forward deliveries, but their increased prompt buying indicates that as their contracts run out they will buy from hand to mouth, perhaps taking substantially as large a tonnage in deliveries as formerly. A sale of 500 tons Bessemer, June, July and August, has been made at $14.50. Valley, while 1,500 tons of basic have gone at $14.50. Quotations remain: Bessemer, $14.50, basic, $14.50; available and
No. 1 foundry, $11.25; large, $12.50.

What Awful Fate Awaits This Daredevil of the Air, Prevost? He's the World's Fastest Flyer

RENNES, France, June 19.— Maurice Prevost earned the title of being the fastest aviator in the world
when he flew around the aviation field here for about eighty miles at an average speed of about 11 1/2 miles an hour. The feat was a remarkable one and made spectators fairly dizzy.
It was predicted that if Prevost continued his bursts of speed in future
tests he would surely fly to his death. Prevost is one of the most daring and expert drivers. In the accompanying illustration he is shown seated in the car of his monoplane,
looking very much as though he were in a racing automobile. The start of a speed test is also shown.

Presto Flake--The Perfect Washing Preparation

"Preparation" is correct—Presto Flake is not a "compound" because some compounds are not to be trusted. The Presto Flake man happened in to tell us of a perfect preparation that does cleaning delicate fabrics without injury to said fabrics or flesh.
'Show me' says the grocery man, thinking that would show away Presto Flake an dits representative. A dainty piece of cloth—our cloth—was produced dragged around in the dirt awhile—soused in cold water, application of the wonder, wring, and—Presto is right!
Fragrances were distributed among the store people for trial and those who used it report marvelous results. Money back if it does any damage. 10c
